

Senate Unit Puts Approval Upon 513 Million Bill

Appropriations Committee Provides Some of Money for New Deal Armament Program

Research Fund

Sum of $1,000,000 Is Added for Experimental Research Work

Washington, March 24 (AP).—The senate appropriations committee approved today a $513,188,782 army supply bill providing some of the money for the administration's armaments program.

Adding $1,000,000 for experimental research work, the committee left otherwise unchanged an appropriation of $84,737,281 plus contract authorization of $19,305,888 for the army air corps.

Included in this amount were funds for a construction program that will add 1,690 fighting and training planes to the air corps' present equipment, by June 30, 1940.

National Guard Camps
Also added to the bill by the senate committee was $1,375,000 for construction of new national guard camps and $610,360 for work on the combined guard, citizens military training camps and reserve camp at Fort Sill, Okla.

Another senate committee addition was $6,000,000 to buy machinery for armaments and air corps modernizing artillery.

An additional $2,183,298 was voted by the committee to establish 54 additional reserve officers' training units in schools and colleges.

All told, the senate committee boosted the bill $330,938 above the sum voted by the house.

The total appropriation of $513,188,782 compared with $460,201,254 for war department for the last fiscal year.

Other developments of the day in Washington:
Secretary Morgenthau, speaking in behalf of "business recovery," proposed to lift from "American productive enterprise" the burdens of tax increases in the old pension system. He suggested to the house ways and means committee that "it might be well to change the payroll tax schedule to keep the levies lower than had been scheduled for the next three years."

A conflict between congress and the administration over sugar legislation was foreseen as the result of senate passage of a measure changing the present control law.

The AFL and CIO renewed their peace conferences with no outward sign that chances for an end to labor's civil war had been strengthened by an exchange of strongly-worded views.

'Phantom' Caught

Arrest of Walter Graham at San Francisco Might End Jewel Robberies
Venice, Calif., March 24 (AP).—Detective Captain Harry Seager said today he believed the arrest in San Francisco of Walter Graham, 40, with $80,000 in gems had ended a five-year search for the "phantom burglar of Bel-Air," whose particular prey had been the wealthy of the motion picture colony.

Seager said officers also had found "jewels" worth at least $20,000 in a Venice residence, that Mrs. Charlotte Graham, 39, his wife, had been apprehended as she attempted to get out a window.

The "phantom" in the past five years has escaped with gems, furs, silverware, clothing and other articles valued in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Mrs. Burekhalter Is Sent to Prison For Manslaughter

Hastings Woman to Serve Term at Bedford Hills Despite Plea Made by Victim's Brother

White Plains, N. Y., March 24 (AP).—Mrs. Marie Burekhalter, 44, who confessed she helped her husband, Eugene Burekhalter, 47, commit suicide, was sent to prison today despite a dramatic plea for leniency by the dead man's brother.

Westchester County Judge Frank H. Coyne ordered Mrs. Burekhalter taken to the state prison for women at Bedford Hills for an indeterminate period of from two and a half to 20 years.

Mrs. Burekhalter broke down just before sentence was passed, after making her first public utterance in her own defense since she was arrested November 19 last, after her husband's body was found in the family garage at Hastings-on-Hudson, a victim of carbon monoxide poisoning.

"If in the eyes of the law I have done something wrong," she said, "I know that in my heart I have done the best I could. It has been a long hard task taking care of my sons, a task that is not finished. They are still young. They need me."

Indicted for first degree manslaughter on her admission that she had helped her husband rig a vacuum cleaner hose from the rear window, Mrs. Burekhalter pleaded guilty March 6 against the advice of her counsel, Mortimer O'Brien.

"I feel she is offering herself as a living sacrifice," O'Brien told Judge Coyne today.

Her brother-in-law, Charles W. Burekhalter, said he was "not blinded to the faults" of his brother, described him as a person who dominated all who came in contact with him, as a man addicted "to strong drink" and with "an ability to manage his own finances."

Speaking of the defendant, he said:

"Those who know her are praying that the widow may soon be reunited with her boys."

The sons are Donald, 20, an adopted child, and William, 17.

House Says No Ground for Action In Perkins Case

Charges Filed in Bridges' Case Not Valid Judiciary Committee Agrees Unanimously

Washington, March 24 (AP).—The House judiciary committee agreed unanimously today there was no ground for impeachment in the charges filed against Secretary Perkins in the Harry Bridges case.

Chairman Sumners (D., Tex.) announced after a three-hour committee session:

"We have agreed unanimously that there are no grounds for impeachment. There will be some minority views but they will not be on the matter of impeachment."

Republicans have suggested that the committee's report to the House on impeachment charges filed by Representative Thomas (R., N. J.) should contain some criticism of the cabinet officer what they described as her failure to press deportation proceedings against Bridges, CIO west coast maritime leader.

Sumners said the committee hoped to report to the House late today.

Bloodhounds Sniff Rancher's Trail in Wyoming Hilltops

Slayer of Four Men Leaves Stronghold and Vanishes Into Hills; Sheriff Picks Rifleman

Cody, Wyo., March 24 (AP).—Sniffing bloodhounds were counted on today to pick up the trail of Earl Durand, 26-year-old slayer of four, who fled his mountain stronghold 40 miles north of Cody before it could be blasted with howitzer and trench mortar fire.

"I think we can pick up the trail with the hounds," said Sheriff Frank Blackburn after a 100-man posse had closed in on Durand's retreat and found him gone.

If not, a bunch of us will stay up there until we get him," said the Park county sheriff, leader of the search for the elusive, eagle-eyed Tarzan who took to the northwest Wyoming hill country a week ago last night after killing two officers.

The bodies of Orville Linabary, 42, of Cody, and Arthur Argento, 46, of Meeteetse, Wyo., were recovered late yesterday from an exposed slope below the natural fortress in Clarksfork Canyon from which Durand had held possemen at bay for nearly 24 hours. The two possemen were shot by the sharpshooting fugitive soon after he hid at the top of the slope.

Sheriff Blackburn said Durand slipped down sometime before daylight yesterday and took two rifles and a pair of shoes from his victims. He then crawled up the high ridge that had protected him from rear attack and vanished again into the hills.

Picks Sharpshooters
The sheriff reduced his posse to 15 or 20 picked sharpshooters today—to give the fugitive fewer targets. Backing up the posse was a Montana National Guard detachment equipped with a .377 millimeter howitzer and three-inch trench mortar for use should Durand attempt another stand.

Bill Garlow of Cody, 26-year-old grandson of W. F. (Buffalo Bill) Cody, famous frontiersman, was exposed to Durand's fire during an early attempt to reach the fallen possemen.

"I wasn't nervous during the actual firing," Garlow related, "but was pretty jittery by the time I returned home."

"I felt like looking under the bed for the first time in my life," Durand used only three rifle bullets when he shot and killed Undersheriff D. M. Baker and Town Marshal Charles E. Lewis of Powell, Wyo., after escaping from the Cody jail a week ago last night. He had been arrested the day before for killing an elk out of season.

After completing his business he started to walk down the stairs and slipped and fell. He injured his ankle so badly that he had to be taken home in an auto, and today the ankle was badly swollen and painful. He will be at his home for some time with the injury.

Treasury for Lower Security Tax Rates

Morgenthau Gives Approval to Proposals for Temporary Reduction for Next Three Years and Presents Three Alternatives to Rate Schedules Now in Effect

Washington, March 24 (AP).—Secretary Morgenthau gave treasury approval today to proposals to lower, temporarily, social security tax rates scheduled for the next three years.

In a statement to the House ways and means committee, he said experience with social security had warranted partial abandonment of the reserve system and that therefore, tax rates for the next few years could be less than anticipated when the act was passed in 1935.

He presented three alternative tax rate schedules to the present law, which levies one per cent of payrolls each on employees and employers from 1937 to 1939, one and one-half per cent each 1940 to 1942, two per cent each 1943 to 1945, two and one-half per cent each 1946 to 1948 and three per cent each in 1949 and thereafter.

Alternative Plans
His alternative plans included: One and one-fourth per cent each in 1940, one and one-half per cent each in 1941, and one and three-quarters per cent in 1942.

One and one-sixth per cent in 1940, one and one-third per cent in 1941, one and one-half per cent in 1942.

Continue present one per cent rate through 1942.

The alternative plans all provided for adopting the present proposal of three per cent each in 1943 or later, but Morgenthau said this rate was retained only for convenience because future conditions might warrant either a lower or higher rate eventually and Congress would have ample time before 1943 to study the problem.

Poland Refuses to Sign Joint 'Stop Hitler' Bloc; Nazis Win Economic Point

Victory Is Germany's First Monopolistic Concession; Pact Extends Enterprise to Black Sea

Defense Goes On

Rumania Continues Its Defense Activities and Calls Out Reservists

Bucharest, March 24 (AP).—Germany has won the right to all products of German-Rumanian companies to be established in Rumania to exploit new oil fields and other industries.

This is the nearest approach to monopolistic concessions given to Germany in the five-year trade agreement, reached Wednesday, a synopsis of which was issued yesterday.

The agreement in effect extends German commercial enterprise to the Black Sea by giving the Nazi state free ports on the Danube and the Black Sea.

Rumania meanwhile continued defense precautions today and reservists proceeded to concentration points under the movement ordered Monday.

Out of Control
It appeared that the functioning of the German-Rumanian companies would be more or less out of Rumanian control—but Bucharest authorities said Rumanian commissioners would be in a position to put the brakes on the operation of other features of the plan should German influence become too great.

Some Rumanians were concerned by the prospects of an influx of German technical experts and workers, fearing that they might become propagandists for political cooperation with Germany. No political conditions were mentioned in the synopsis of the agreement.

The trade treaty was regarded by many as the framework of an economic plan capable of filling many of Germany's needs for raw materials.

Wheat, petroleum, stone and many other minerals become readily available to Germany.

'Just Guesses'
But economists who were studying the ramifications of the extensive plan cautioned that predictions that Germany would absorb all or a large percentage of Rumania's agricultural and mineral surpluses were "just guesses."

Two points were interpreted as safeguards against complete economic domination of Rumania by the Nazi state:

Rumania did not bind herself to deal exclusively with Germany or even to export definite percentages of her products to Germany. She remains free to sell any quantities of products to other nations.

Government commissions will be created to pass upon individual trade and development projects undertaken jointly by the two countries. A Rumanian commission may disapprove of any undertaking which it fears might give Germany too great a claim for Rumanian products.

Little Exchange Increase
Little, if any, increase in exchanges of devisen (controlled foreign exchange) between the two countries was said to be contemplated.

Rumania will get armaments, highways and railroad materials and Germany will cooperate in the development of oil fields, quarries and plantations.

For these purposes and for industrial products she will receive credits in Rumania with which she will buy raw materials.

For the purposes of clearing, the mark will be valued at 48 Rumanian lei. Under the previous trade agreement, the mark was valued at 39 1/2 lei. (In the foreign exchange market, the mark is valued at 40 cents and the lei at seven-tenths of a cent—or a ratio of 57 lei to one mark.)

Assembly Adopts Amendment to Act On Rail Crossings

Provision Is Made for State Dept. of Public Works To Perform on All Crossing Projects

Albany, March 24 (Special).—The Assembly has unanimously adopted an amendment to the so-called "Wicks grade crossing elimination enabling act," by changing the measure to provide that the state department of public works shall perform work on grade crossing projects carried out in conformance with the constitutional amendment adopted by voters at the general election last November.

The bill, sponsored by Senator Arthur H. Wicks, of Kingston, in the form in which it passed in the Senate February 14, would have given the railroad companies involved in the eliminations charge of letting contracts and spending the $120,000,000 to be used for grade crossing elimination work undertaken in conformance with the recently adopted constitutional amendment.

Amendments by Recoux
The amendments to the measure adopted by the Assembly were offered by Assemblyman Harry A. Recoux, Warren county Republican, who contends that it is only proper for the public works department to control expenditure of the state's funds, rather than to have the railroad company or companies involved in the projects, have complete charge of public moneys.

As adopted last November, the constitutional amendment provides that cost of all grade crossing elimination projects is to be borne, in the first instance, by the state. After completion of the job, the railroad company involved may be assessed its share of the cost in proportion to the amount of benefit the company received from the elimination. This amount, however, is not to exceed 15 per cent of the total cost of construction.

At the present time, the railroad companies bear 50 per cent of the cost of railroad grade crossing eliminations, the state shares 49 per cent, and the county in which the crossing is located pays the remaining one per cent.

It is expected the Wicks bill as amended, will come before the Assembly for a vote next Monday night.

Poland's Decision Is Seen as Balking Anglo-French Accord; Fighting Goes on in Slovakia

Hitler Returns

Fuehrer Returns to Berlin After Trip to Memel; Will Take Rest

(By The Associated Press)
Joint British-French efforts to erect a "stop Hitler" bloc of European nations apparently were checked today by Poland's refusal to join.

The Warsaw newspaper Express Poranny, considered to be a mouthpiece of the foreign office, said Poland would join no international bloc and political circles regarded this announcement as tantamount to rejection of the proposed British-French accord.

At Bratislava, the Slovak defense ministry reported that the Hungarian-held town of Sobrance had been bombed and one Hungarian plane shot down in fighting in eastern Slovakia. A Slovak communiqué said Hungarian forces were resisting strongly but were being forced to retreat under heavy air attacks.

Many Casualties
Numerous casualties were reported in fighting yesterday and today along Slovakia's uncertain eastern frontier.

Poland has been deaf to British entreaties without flat military commitments to assure her own defense. Her neighbor on three sides is Germany which now has smashed Czechoslovakia, gained Memel and struck a broad trade bargain with Rumania.

It was believed in London that France, because of her long-standing friendship with Poland, might be more likely to persuade Poland to join. This was believed, will be a prime matter in urgent consultations expected to take place between French Premier Daladier and his foreign minister, Georges Bonnet.

Return to Paris
Bonnet and President Albert Lebrun of France returned to Paris after a three-day state visit to King George VI and Queen Elizabeth in London.

Also confronting France was the possibility of negotiations to settle her differences with Italy. Many French observers saw a direct link between the French-Italian issue and the attempt to form a "stop Hitler" bloc.

They reasoned that Premier Mussolini was marking time to see how successful Britain and France would be and expressed belief that much further delay would indicate to Il Duce that he had chosen well in casting his lot with Hitler.

Nazis, meanwhile, looked at Europe's map with conviction that, for the first time since the World War, they had only friends on the immediate east, from the Baltic to the Black Sea.

They surveyed a row of friendly neighbors forming a buffer against Germany's potential foe, Soviet Russia, as a result of Hitler's bloodless conquests and treaties. They saw new resources of grain and oil—tools of 20th century war—opened up by the trade treaty with Rumania.

The Fuehrer, returned to Berlin after yesterday's triumphant entry into regained Memeland and was expected soon to take a prolonged rest. Informed quarters in Berlin predicted there would be no immediate startling developments in Germany's expansion.

Madrid Might Surrender
The possibility of peace soon in Spain's 32-months-old civil war again appeared. In Burgos, Spanish nationalists prepared to accept what was reported to be Madrid's

The Rev. Silas A. Thweatt said Capone was the first of 16 men to rise to his feet when he asked if any of them felt the need of a saviour, and was one of about 75 who signified by raising hands that they desired his prayers.

"As prison rules forbid us from approaching more than 10 feet from the men, I could not talk with Capone about his spiritual needs," the pastor said.

Kiwanis Observes Its 'Rural Day'

Kingston Kiwanis observed its annual "Rural Day" Thursday when each member brought as his guest a farmer friend. In honor of the rural folks the program of the club was devoted to a topic of interest to not only the rural resident but also the city man.

Edward Demarest of Rosendale and Frank C. Sherwood of Purina Mills presented a motion picture showing the development of a baby chick from the time the egg is first placed in the incubator until the chick emerges. The film was made by Cornell University and showed the progressive growth of the chick within the egg shell day by day. The picture was most interesting in that it showed the rapid development of the chick from the time the chick began to form on the second day until it finally emerged on the 21st day.

In the making of the film thousands of eggs were used to photograph the daily progress of a chick. Accompanying the film was a running talk explaining the various steps in the development. It was explained that there were annually about a billion eggs which went into incubating plants and that 650,000,000 chicks were produced from the billion eggs. This loss through unproductive eggs represented $18,000,000 to hatcheries and science was attempting to cut down this number of unproductive eggs so as to increase the average number of eggs which hatch.

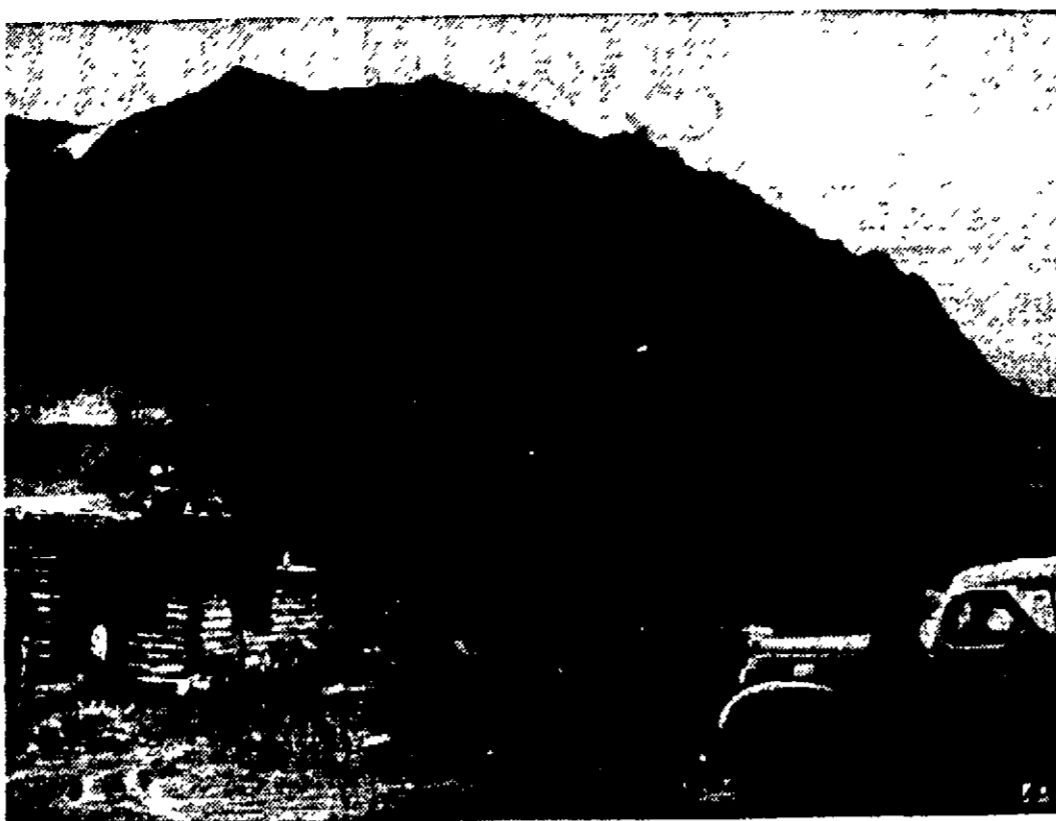

In addition to showing the development of a chick in the shell, the picture also showed scientific work and experimentation which was being done for the benefit of the poultry industry.

The luncheon which preceded the entertainment program was held in the crystal room with every Kiwanian having as his guest a farmer friend.

Under the direction of Paul Zucca, with Dan Bittner at the piano, a musical program followed the dinner. Three quartets were called into action as a part of the entertainment.

The first number was by Leslie Herring, William Hookey, Holt N.

BOATS AND WATER SPORTS

In view of the revived interest displayed in boating and water sports on the Hudson River and Rondout Creek, and with Spring now in the offing, perhaps a few remarks about boats and boating are timely. In a recent survey made by the Hudson Valley Survey Commission it was pointed out that approximately twenty per cent of the people of the United States live within easy access of the river and that a revival of boating and water sports should be started immediately.

There also has been proposed a national steamboat race on the Hudson, the purpose of which is to focus attention of the people of the United States upon our inland waterways, upon the glamour and romance of the old river days and the river towns which contributed so much to the progress of our country and upon the two great world's fairs being held simultaneously at each end of the continent.

With the new leisure, it is incredible how water sports are growing in America and rare is the yachtsman, or plain boatman, who isn't already planning his fitting out, his launching and his Summer's fun.

The typical "yachtsman" is a much humbler bird than most landsmen suppose. He has a comparatively small investment and his sport is usually rather economical. This is possible mainly because of the long life of water craft as compared with automobiles. A car costing $900 is pretty well used up in five or six years. A yachting editor figures that a typical powerboat costing that much may be reasonably expected to last 20 or 25 years, and a sailboat still longer. The depreciation is accordingly low.

So is the operation low, unless the owner is a speed fiend. It is incredible how speed, and the power necessary to provide it, will run up the expense. A 20-foot launch that will make eight miles an hour with a 10-horsepower engine may burn gas at the rate of one gallon an hour. It will take about 15 horsepower to make 10 miles an hour, 20 horsepower for 12 miles, 30 horsepower for 15 miles, 60 horsepower for 25 miles, 125 horsepower for 30 miles and 200 horsepower for 35 miles an hour. The rising speed requires, of course, always a larger motor burning more gas and subject to more expensive upkeep.

The best fun, generally speaking, goes with the smaller boats and the low upkeep.

GOOD HOMES AT LOW COST

There is considerable interest in a Federal housing project in Cleveland, which involves the elimination of 3,000 undesirable dwellings in return for new homes. The homes are intended for workers who make less than $1,000 a year, and the average monthly rent will be, with accompanying utilities, about $5 a room. This is obviously less than modern housing can be obtained for in most cities nowadays. The projects are expected to pay for themselves in the long run, both financially and socially.

"Relief, housing and other welfare activities are a contribution to the cause of democracy," says Marc J. Grossman, a philanthropist serving as chairman of the local Housing Authority. "Men crushed by adversity and blind with fear are apt eagerly to trade liberty for the dictator's promise of security."

"If the democratic process is to survive, it must come through the initiative of private capital and industry in the form of a vastly expanded production, a great reduction in unemployment and a consequent decrease in government spending."

"But until that time is reached, the surest guarantee of the survival of private capitalism is the alleviation of the deep want and suffering from mass poverty."

One of the biggest results of such slum clearance, he adds, will be the stimulus to private building. The projects under way, he maintains, are clearly non-competitive. "Private industry cannot cope with this segment of the population, but it can and will replace substandard houses vacated by the future project residents."

The city gains, too, because "slum clearance is the best insurance against the enormous costs of fire and police protection, loss of taxes and health hazards prevalent in blighted areas." These are considerations worth noting by small cities as well as large ones.

CHANGING MAPS

The map-makers, meaning cartographers, not dictators, have plenty to do these days. An inquisitive reporter who visited the work-rooms of an American map-making company found draftsmen at work on maps of Europe still incorporating changes created at Munich last September.

Such work isn't wasted. People are as interested in maps showing the world before a major change as they are in those that follow it. In order to study the changes themselves both maps are necessary, and in order to study history it is necessary to have maps of different periods and dates back through the years.

There is something a little reassuring about the existence of so many maps. They reveal a great many changes. Boundaries are amazingly unstable. The changes made necessary at any time by ruthless aggression are destined surely to be reversed or altered in the future, either by military re-conquest or by wiser conference and cooperation.

It will be a fine day for the troubled peoples of Europe when that continent's map is labeled "United States of Europe." Today that development seems remote, indeed, but a study of maps of the past—including our own—suggests it isn't impossible.

PART OF "AUTHORITY"

Neither a slave nor a rebel is wanted in a democracy says Bertrand Russell, the British philosopher, now teaching in this country.

"It is clear that too much discipline is not a good thing if you want to produce a population capable of democracy. If you want to get people into the habit of initiative, of thinking for themselves and not taking their opinions from others, you must get them into the attitude of neither subservience nor rebellion against authority, which is natural in a man who feels that he is part of what makes authority."

There is a great stabilizing power in that feeling—that the citizen is himself "a part of what makes authority." And because Americans in general have always felt so, our government has existed in its present form longer than any other government in the world.

Sometimes very beautiful babies turn out quite otherwise.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

 THE DISTURBED MIND.

There is no question but that physicians have been slow in recognizing the effect of the mind upon the working of the organs of the body—heart, stomach and digestion, blood vessels and blood pressure, and other organs and processes. Today, however, the physician knows, as the old family doctor learned years ago, that an unsettled, anxious, discontented mind not only interferes with the action of the various organs, but can, as Prof. Cannon of Harvard has shown, cause actual organic disease.

When a patient comes in for a consultation today, most physicians listen patiently to his whole story and, because parts of the story do not fit into a regular pattern of some disease, do not tell him there is nothing wrong with him. They realize that the patient must be convinced about his ailment and so a complete examination is made. This may include the X-rays, a visit to the dentist or other specialist, and complete consideration of all the findings given. If no organic condition is found, the physician states this fact to the patient and in most cases, with the mind relieved of anxiety regarding the supposed ailment, the symptoms disappear.

Dr. Norman Yiner, in the Canadian Medical Association Journal tells of a number of cases showing various symptoms suggesting ulcer of the stomach, appendicitis, heart disease, high blood pressure, loss of memory, and others, all of whom were "cured" when the "worry" or "anxiety," the real cause of the symptoms, were removed.

A number of years ago a Protestant clergyman and a Catholic priest were attached to one of the hospital clinics in London. A patient, after being thoroughly examined and no organic disease found, which could account for his symptoms, was handed over to the clergyman or priest. In most cases by careful and sympathetic questioning, the worry, fear, anxiety, obsession or other emotional disturbance was brought to light and suggestions given as to the best manner of handling each difficult condition.

The priest or clergyman could talk safely and confidently with these cases because the reports of the physicians showed no organic disease present.

Neurosis
 Are you bothered by "symptoms" or "pains" the source of which medical tests do not reveal? Are you sometimes "compelled" to do things which you know to be foolish? Sound for this tremendously interesting booklet by Dr. Barton entitled "Neurosis" (No. 103) which explains how the "cure" of such conditions is accomplished. BABSON ON BUSINESS

PROFIT MARGINS GOOD

Babson Says Industry More Efficient Than Ever Before

Palm Beach, Fla., March 24.—Profit margins of many companies are very good. In view of the sharp increase in wages and taxes in recent years many people will be astonished to discover how good profit margins are when first quarter reports are printed. This, of course, is not true of all companies. In some concerns, margins are about as low as they have ever been, but these are special situations. In this connection, readers may recall that one-third of all companies lost money even in 1929!

The reasons for improved profit margins are two-fold. First is the gain in industrial efficiency through the wider use of labor-saving machinery and processes. It is estimated that the output of goods for one man in one hour has jumped 12 per cent since the end of 1935. It has gone up more than 50 per cent in 15 years! Higher wages and union activities have spurred management into combining every possibility where they could install a new machine or a new process to save on labor costs. Insofar as union activities and higher wages have caused this, the unions have only hurt their less efficient workers.

Raw Materials Cheap

Second major reason for better profit margins is a lower cost for raw materials. The following figures show this clearly:

	Two yrs. ago	Today
Copper	$0.17	$0.11
Lead	0.075	0.048
Iron	23.25	20.50
Rubber	0.25	0.16
Wheat	1.37	0.75
Cotton	0.15	0.09

These lower costs are particularly important in the baking, food, copper fabricating, tire, and similar businesses.

One particularly important industry which is experiencing excellent profit margins is steel. Many people felt that with the advance in costs of labor since 1936 the industry would have to operate at 60 per cent of capacity or better to show a profit. Fourth quarter reports of the big steel organizations show that they can still make money at a much lower rate of operations. Their prices, which marched smartly higher in 1936 and 1937, have come down only part way, while their material costs have dropped and their big new plants have cut the labor cost per ton of rolled steel.

Finished Prices Have Held

Finished prices of steel, motor cars, bread, shirts, etc., have been marked down 11 per cent according to the Department of Labor's Index. Why, with the cost of making products less, have these finished prices not tilted downward more sharply? Well, one reason is that wage rates have absorbed some of the savings. Another reason is that taxes have galloped up to new all-time highs. Higher wage rates may represent an increase in national purchasing power; but higher taxes represent a dangerous trend. Taxes do not add to the nation's purchasing power or standard of living in the same proportion as do wages because most taxes are used for non-productive purposes.

Before business was regulated—when there was free competition among industries—the saving in production costs was passed along to the consumer. A prime example of this principle is Henry Ford and the motor industry. Year after year Ford turned out better and better cars at a lower and lower price—due to his increased efficiency in production. Other motor makers had to follow suit. Wages were increased; investors received bigger dividends; and consumers had better

Taxes Sopping Up Economies

This is a crude pattern of the progress in all industries that has given the United States the greatest material wealth of any civilization in any age. Now, what is happening? The savings in the cost of production are no longer being passed along to the consumer. Instead, they are being sopped up by taxes. Some of the President's "Princes of Privilege" would add that they are being absorbed by labor, too, especially where efficiency is being hampered by labor rules. Hence, retail prices now tend to go up even with producing costs going down. The politicians are spending so much money that they are sponging up the benefits of increased productive efficiency which formerly went to the consumer.

What does this mean? Unless this trend is stopped, it means that the American standard of living of September, 1929, or even of March, 1937, may represent the all-time high for the nation. Of course, certain individuals, certain companies, and certain investors will forge ahead as they always have. But the nation as a whole has already seen the peak of America's living standards—unless the political spenders and wasters are driven to cover. I may sound like an old-line Republican when I say this—but it is just as true as day follows night.

Capitalism Sound System

Capitalism is the soundest economic system the world has thus far had; but many of the things that have been done by some capitalists have been very bad. The capitalist system is still sound and is still producing good profits. Moreover, profit margins should continue good this year. Consequently, after this latest European trouble clears away, stock prices and dividends should be considerably better. We all are learning as we are getting older. This even applies to congressmen!

Differences Over Spending Program Coming to a Climax Because These Months Are Crucial Ones

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1939)

Washington, March 24.—Far from healthy is the situation which has just been precipitated between the President and some of the Democratic leaders in Congress. It is not just a piece of ordinary friction between the executive and legislative branches of the government, but a controversy which is deeply rooted in the entire business situation confronting a nation which might well be striving not only for national unity in troubled times of international stress, but for economic recovery as a social and humanitarian endeavor.

The statement issued by Chairman Eccles of the federal reserve board apropos of the difference of opinion between Congress and the President is in some respects one of the most remarkable that has come from a key executive in the federal establishment. It is as forthright as it is unprecedented.

For Mr. Eccles concedes that a majority of both houses of Congress believe business recovery can come from a curtailment of expenditures and a balanced budget and he challenges the legislative leadership to go ahead and cut the budget. He says that, believing as he does in democracy, the majority should have its way, much as he disagrees that budget cutting can produce the desired result.

What Mr. Eccles is saying in effect is that the position of the executive branch of the government is a minority viewpoint. In a parliamentary government, of course, under analogous circumstances, the executive would resign and make way for an administration in harmony with the majority of the legislators. As head of the federal reserve board, Mr. Eccles occupies a position of large responsibility, and his discussion is not related to party politics or factional strife. He has defended "deficit spending" as an emergency measure and has indicated that, until private spending is able to take care of the unemployed, the maintenance of purchasing power through continued public spending is logical and inevitable.

Mr. Eccles knows enough about politics, however, and the oppositions pressing groups to believe that a budget cutting program offered in Congress will hardly materialize. So far as spending is concerned, the record of Congress is just as extravagant as that of any executive. It probably would have been a better way for Mr. Eccles to have stated the situation had he announced that Congress feels the impact of American public opinion, which wants spending stopped, but does not have the nerve to curtail expenditures.

There would have been nothing new in such an assertion, for Congress has not taken the matter of appropriations in hand heretofore. Senator Byrd of Virginia, Democrat, has been persistently pointing out the danger of lump sum appropriations and wants Congress to take back its power to appropriate for specific items. But the Virginia senator, like Senator Pat Harrison, chairman of the Senate finance committee, feels that the budget cutting should not be a case of small boy tactics, with one side trying to put the other in the hole. Both these senators and others on Capitol Hill are saying they ought definitely to be cooperation between the Democrats on Capitol Hill and the White House. Evidently the conferences which have been held thus far are not regarded as "cooperative," but as merely a reflection of the battle that is going on as between the proponents of "deficit financing" and the "budget balancers."

Recently it has been apparent that even the school of thought which wants spending reduced is not arguing for an immediate balancing of the budget, but wants to see a definite trend in that direction established—a reversal of the tide of public spending. If this is to be the policy, the administration insists that a start should not be made on the relief rolls, but in other fields of expenditure, yet, the moment any particular series of appropriations is touched, there is a hue and cry from those affected.

The situation here is rapidly coming to a climax because these months are crucial ones for the Democrats. The Republicans, in rather sardonic glole, think that the more the Democrats fight among themselves, the more disgusted will public opinion become as it demands a complete change in government in the elections next year. If the Republicans had been mischievously planning it, they could not have wished for a better exhibition of how not to run the majority party, which has the full responsibility in the eyes of the people for the present business situation.

Will the Democrats who believe tax revision and curtailment of expenses is sound policy, take the initiative and act with the aid of Republican votes put through such a program? This is the real challenge which can be inferred from the Eccles statement as well as from the attitude of the President, as made clear in his press conference earlier this week.

What the suffering public will not be able to understand is why, with declining tax receipts due to bad business conditions, there is any hesitancy to revise business taxes so as to provide incentives to industry. For the philosophy expressed by many of the administration folks has been that business makes a mistake to hold up its prices, limit its output and throw people out of work when depressions come. Yet the federal government is doing precisely that thing when it refuses to reduce tax rates, which in itself would increase production, increase profits, increase tax receipts and furnish the confidence so essential to business recovery. It certainly is a time for submerging of all differences in the common interest and for a real round table of party leaders, conservatives and liberals. Otherwise there may be such a serious economic crisis as to make it certain the Democrats will lose the 1940 elections.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Highland, March 24.—The audience at the meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association Monday evening were reluctant to adjourn following most interesting talks by Emory Jacobs, Dr. Roland Will and Mr. Huntington of the New Paltz Normal School faculty. The subject: "The Importance of a Family in a Democracy" was first taken up by Mr. Huntington following introductions by John Gaffney, who with Mrs. Gaffney were chairmen, and Mr. Jacobs. Mr. Huntington took up the problems in a family, types of homes and that parents must not do. Dr. Will, as one of a large family, gave some reasoning on helping children to be trained to be independent in thought, decisions and action. Questions and statements from those in the audience were discussed. One man thought that with supervised playgrounds, Boy Scouts and similar agencies that it was easier to bring up children now than in past years. Mr. Jacobs seemed to think many of those factors left others to train and formulate the lives of children, and were not as good as the family.

Mrs. Francis Gaffney, Jr., presided for the business meeting. The treasurer reported $14.10 had been sent in as state dues also $2.00 which was the amount of collection on Founders Day. District dues of $3.50 had been sent, and the balance in the treasury was $44.22.

Letters were read asking the organization to protest any reduction in state aid and kindergarten aid, and to uphold the Neely bill. The secretary was asked to write to the representatives in state and national assemblies, as directed. Since the local P.T.A. wished to add something to the new school Mr. Campbell, the principal, had suggested a P.T.A. banner or a New York state flag. A committee of Miss Ruth Goldsmith, Mrs. William Barnaby and Mrs. James Swift were appointed to inquire into the most needed article and prices, to report at the next meeting.

Mrs. Gaffney called attention to the radio program on each Wednesday evening in "Wings of the Martins" which dealt with the daily lives of a family. Also that the state convention would be held in Ithaca April 17-20 and that a delegate was called for. No action was taken and the matter will be brought up on April 10, when a nominating committee is also to be appointed. The association voted again to keep the national P.T.A. magazine in the public library and the treasurer was to renew the subscription. Mrs. Vincent Gaffney was announced as chairman of refreshments for the April meeting. The large audience at the close of the meeting went to the homemaking room for coffee and cakes served by Miss Ruth Goldsmith and girls of the homemaking department.

Glee Club Formed
 Highland, March 24.—Several members of Adonai Lodge 718, F. & A. M., met with the Rev. D. S. Haynes Monday evening for the purpose of forming a Glee Club. W. Herman Jordan was elected president and librarian; the Rev. Mr. Haynes, vice president; Oliver J. Tillson, secretary; Mrs. Jordan, treasurer. It is expected that the first rehearsal will take place on April 12 in the parish house of Trinity Church. It is expected that the Glee Club will sing in conjunction with the Masonic quartet which is composed of Dr. Victor P. Salvatore, G. Harold Sutton, the Rev. D. S. Haynes and Lorin E. Osterhout. Invitations have been sent out to others to join the club.

Personal Notes
 Highland, March 24.—Gordon Dalton of Red Wood Falls, Minn., was a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Rathgeb from Tuesday until Friday. Mr. Dalton came on from his home and will hold a position at the World's Fair until September when he enters Princeton Seminary. Mr. Dalton's home was here during the period that his father served as minister in the Presbyterian Church. He graduated last year from Hamilton College at Clinton.

Oliver J. Tillson, who holds an office in the Mid-Hudson Philatelic Society, received this week a letter from Mauru Island in the Central Pacific. The value of the letter lay in the stamps affixed to it from that island.

A. W. Williams is confined to his home by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Walker and three children were Sunday guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. McCarthy.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Alexander drove to New York on Tuesday for the day.

Salvatore Marrone was home from Manhattan College for the week-end.

Mrs. A. W. Williams and Miss Julia Van Keuren were guests in Kingston on Sunday.

A special reservoir on Yerba Buena Island, 280 feet higher than Treasure Island, contains 3,000,000 gallons of water for use at the California World's Fair.

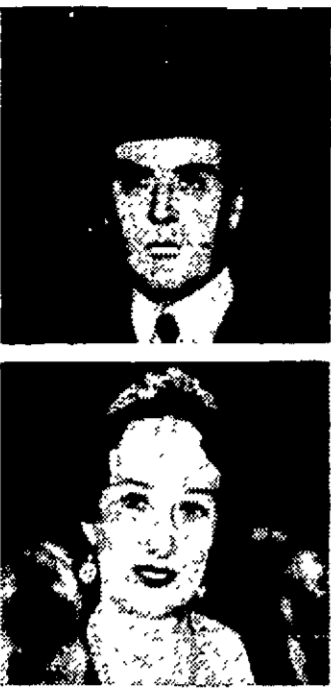

Royalty Heads For U. S. On Business And Pleasure

DENMARK'S Crown Prince Frederik is as fond of the sea as President Roosevelt, whom he'll visit in April. Composes music for fun. Pretty Princess Ingrid, a Swede, is a champion tennis player. They'll do Washington, the New York fair, visit Danish-Americans.

By The AP Feature Service

STRIKE up the band—here comes the royal parade. They're going down to the sea in be-fagged battleships and liners—coming over to see America's fairs, scenery and citizens, and, incidentally, to act as salesmen for their countries. First in line are Denmark's Crown Prince and Princess, expected to arrive on the West Coast early in April. Following them are Norway's Crown Prince and Princess. Next come Britain's King and Queen, expected in the U. S. early in June. And there will be other distinguished "traveling salesmen." Outstanding is Ireland's premier, who probably has more actual power than any of the royal visitors. He's due early in May. Here's a preview of the big show:

NORWAY'S royal heirs, Olav (top) and Martha, plan an all-American tour of 10 weeks starting with the San Francisco fair, and including Scandinavian centers, Hyde Park and New York. He's a husky soldier. She is famous for needlework. He is 36; she is 38.

BRITAIN'S King George and Queen Elizabeth will be the first monarchs of the Empire ever to set foot on American soil. Three men of war will form the royal convoy across the Atlantic to Canada. After a transatlantic trip, their majesties will visit Washington, New York and Hyde Park. The fair-haired Englishman and the dark-haired Scotswoman will be at sea on the second anniversary of their coronation, May 12. The king is 43, she is 38. Some Englishmen place a higher value on the goodwill expected from their U. S. visit than on the state mission for the Empire in the Dominion.

IRELAND'S premier, Eamon de Valera, will be visiting his native land. The rugged, tall, 56-year-old Irish patriot was born in New York. In addition to official visits in Washington and the New York fair, he will call on Irish centers in U. S. cities.

LITHUANIANS MOVE OUT OF MEMEL—

Loading supplies into an ambulance, Lithuanian soldiers in Memel get ready to evacuate the portion of their country ceded to Germany by the Lithuanian government. Not long after this picture, transmitted by radio from London to New York, was made, Adolf Hitler reached Memel on a warship to take formal possession of the territory for the Reich.

—AND GERMAN GUNS RUMBLE IN

Crossing the Russ river from Tilsit, East Prussia, German artillery moves into Memel—advance guard of the army of occupation which took over the region newly ceded by Lithuania to Germany. Later Adolf Hitler made his usual tour of inspection and speech, welcoming his Nazi listeners "back to the Reich."

Can't Get Quorum

Santiago, Chile, March 24 (AP)—Although the woman mayor of Valparaiso has been unable for two months to muster a quorum of the city council—because the councilmen don't approve of women mayors—President Pedro Aguirre Cerda has promised not to remove her. He appointed Senora Graciela De Selach as mayor in January shortly after he took office and promised a delegation of Valparaiso city employees yesterday that he would stand by the appointment.

Manton Is Indicted

New York, March 24 (AP)—Former U. S. Circuit Judge Martin T. Manton was indicted today for the third time in less than a month, for conspiracy to obstruct justice, to defraud the government of its right to his own unbiased services, and to accept bribes. Indicted with him as an accused co-conspirator was John L. Lott, former president of the Flatbush (Brooklyn) Republican Club and one-time director of the Fort Greene National Bank in Brooklyn.

New York farmers need from 20,000 to 25,000 new horses each year. Of that number, it is said, the state does not raise more than one-fourth of its replacement needs.

Looks Come First With City Typist

Hidden Taxes Nick 'Tillie' For Part of Salary.

CHICAGO.—The average city stenographer thinks four times as much of her looks as she does of books and other educational material, if a survey of her expenditures is a criterion.

This and other sidelights on the fiscal life of the city stenographer were uncovered by a series of questionnaires distributed in downtown Chicago offices by the National Consumers Tax commission.

The average stenographer named—estimates her monthly expenditures for creams, lotions, powders, rouges and beauty parlor treatments at $6.11.

In practically the same breath, however, Tillie admits to paying only $1.60 a month for reading and other educational material—about enough to buy a half-interest in the latest best seller.

The questionnaires, which revealed the above figures, were sent out by the N. C. T. C. in a "study of expenditures of stenographers to show the relation of indirect taxes on their daily lives."

Tillie has to work "about three weeks a year to pay the hidden taxes buried in the cost of everything she buys," the report stated.

Taxes levied during the manufacture and distribution of cosmetics and passed along to her absorb $7.32 a year of the average stenographer's payment of her cosmetic bills.

Tillie says she spends $237.40 a year for clothes—none of which is included in her outlay for self beautification—but $21.60 of it goes to pay for shifted taxes, according to the report.

Tillie spends about half of her monthly reading material outlay for newspapers. She enjoys the woman's page the most—and believe it or not—the editorial page next.

Her expenditures for books are spent mainly in rental libraries.

The study is one of several on the relation of hidden taxes to the budgets of individuals and of families which are being made by the N. C. T. C., a non-political women's organization waging a nationwide educational campaign to "expose indirect taxes that penalize the consumer."

Dentist Removes Tooth, Treats and Puts It Back

CHICAGO.—A Michigan dentist demonstrated an operation which makes it possible to remove an abscessed tooth, treat it and replant it. Dr. C. W. Messing, of Houghton, Mich., explained the process with X-ray and charts at the seventy-fifth annual mid-winter meeting of the Chicago Dental society.

He said he had replanted approximately 75 teeth, which should last anywhere from a minimum of five years to eight or ten years.

He first X-rays the tooth, then extracts it and treats any abscess in the jaw. If there is no cavity in the tooth, he drills a hole into the root canal, removes the root tissue and, after thoroughly sterilizing the tooth, replaces the root tissue with gutta-percha. Then he fills the root end of the tooth with a silver filling and the surface end with porcelain. He resterilizes the tooth, presses it back into the cavity in the jaw and sets it in place with gold splint. The splint is worn about a month to give the gum and tissue time to grow around the tooth.

Use Reaction Tests to Evaluate Athletic Sinew

STATE COLLEGE, PA.—A Staten Island (N. Y.) girl is undertaking an ambitious project at Pennsylvania State college. She wants to learn whether college athletes have better muscular co-ordination than the nonathletic undergraduates.

Dorothy R. Donohue, a graduate student in health and physical education at Penn State, plans to test the reaction time of athletes and nonathletes to identical situations as a part of her graduate study. She intends to select 300 athletes at Penn State and match their quickness with that of 300 nonathletes chosen from the student body.

Among the tests to be used are those given to automobile drivers to test the quickness of the eye. Miss Donohue plans to measure eye, foot and hand co-ordination, and the general quickness in action of the two groups. She also plans to study what sports, if any, tend to increase co-ordination.

Rare Bird Feared Extinct Found Alive in Australia

SYDNEY.—The eastern bristle bird, no specimens of which have been seen in Australia for 40 years, has been rediscovered in the Kiama district by Jack Marshall, zoologist. The bird was discovered about 100 years ago, and collectors have been trying to get specimens ever since. The bird is brownish in color, and practically lives on the ground because its short, rounded wings permit it to flutter only a few yards at a time.

An Odd Fashion

A very odd fashion appeared in the Thirteenth and Fourteenth centuries, of embroidering heraldic devices on the long gowns of the ladies of rank. A picture of those days shows a duchess in a corsage and train of ermine, with a very fierce looking lion rampant embroidered twice on her long gown. Another displays an heraldic dolphin of very sinister aspect upon one side of her corsage and on the skirt of her long gown.

This change, he said, will not take place until after the company returns from state camp in June. Captain Heath said that the change might result in a smaller unit with the same officers, and also a few experts in the operation of anti-aircraft guns.

Army Flier Is Killed

His body was found near the wreckage beneath his partially opened parachute. A posse of volunteers were directed to the tobacco field near here by Pvt. F. M. Banana Tree Dwarfed to Facilitate Harvesting

A banana "tree" will grow to a height of 30 feet, and with leaves 10 feet long, but on plantations it is kept much shorter to facilitate harvesting. Bananas are a commercial proposition to grow, for on the land required to grow a hundred pounds of potatoes you can grow as much as four thousand pounds of bananas, notes a writer in London Answers Magazine.

Apart from this, the plants need very little attention and little effort is necessary to cultivate further trunks. The fruit we know can either be eaten fresh or in a dried state; however, are also made from bananas, and the dried fruit can be ground into an excellent flour. In the tropical countries where the plant is cultivated, the ten-foot leaves are used for thatching roofs.

The common banana we eat grows on a tree which is only one of a family. In East Africa, one variety grows fruit to the tremendous size of two feet long and about nine or ten inches round, but it only grows one to every bunch of the other tree, and the fruit has to be cooked. Another member of the same family gives us the famous Manila hemp, which is made from the fibers in the leaves.

After only a short history, the banana has become Britain's most popular fruit food, imports jumping about 70 per cent even in the last nine years. Unlike apples, lemons, and oranges, which are often consumed in cooked and liquid forms, the banana is mostly eaten in its natural state.

By the way, no banana trees have been grown from seed in living memory. It has been so scientifically cultivated that seeds aren't necessary.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 24 (AP)—The stock market today added fractions to around 3 points to Thursday's upturn but the advance was notably lacking in speed.

A little profit taking came in from time to time and, near the final hour, prices were under the best in most cases. Transfers were at the rate of approximately 700,000 shares.

Brokers attributed the fairly satisfactory performance of the list partly to a further lull in worries over Europe and to a slight revival of hope that congress would, in the long run, provide legislative props for business.

At the same time skeptics were still plentiful in the boardrooms, and these pointed to the lightness of turnover in recent rallying periods as an indication there are many hurdles on the road back to bull markets.

Bonds leaned upward, with rails favored. Commodities were slightly rising. Sentiment was the firmness of foreign markets, although dealings there also were quiet.

Prominent share gainers on the domestic front included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Lee Tire, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Santa Fe, Great Northern, Consolidated Edison, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, duPont, Johnsonville and International Telephone.

Up as much as a point or so in the curb were American Gas, Lockhead, Electric Bond & Share and Freuhauf Trailer.

Market Recovers Some of Its Losses Of Previous Day

The stock market went back to the up side in Thursday's trading, although gains were comparatively small compared with the losses suffered the previous day. With the London market higher stocks opened up over two points above Wednesday's close, but prices receded in later trading and the final figures for the day were considerably below the high point. At the close industrial issues, as measured in the Dow-Jones list, showed a net gain for the day of 0.82 point, to 140.33; rails were up 0.40 point, to 29.36 and utilities had advanced 0.39 point, to 23.65.

Commodity markets were steadier, with trading quiet, the futures index showing a fractional gain. Cotton closed one to three points higher, wheat was steady after early declines and closed 3-8 lower at Chicago. Rubber and silk futures showed the greatest gain, the former advancing nearly a quarter of a cent a pound, and silk being quoted at $2.23 a pound. There was continued dullness in the cotton goods trade.

Secretary Morgenthau, yesterday, in a letter to Senator Wagner, said that restrictions on the present inflow of gold would have a bad effect on domestic economy and upset international trade and exchange. He said that "at this moment it looks as though the European situation will remain so disturbed as to postpone for some time and substantial repatriation of foreign balances." He held that the war scare would continue our "favorable" trade balance.

The London market showed a general recovery Thursday, industrial gains 1.3 points compared with Wednesday's drop of 1.8 points. Prices on the Paris Bourse were slightly better in inactive trading.

President Kulas of the Otis Steel Co., returning home yesterday, said that "the rehabilitation of Spain offers a wonderful opportunity for American business."

The company is at present rearranging its factory facilities to raise production efficiency and lower costs and is prepared to take advantage of the expansion in general business indicated at this time.

Report of W. T. Grant Co. for 1938 shows net earnings for the year of $2,766,422. This is equal after dividends on 5 per cent cumulative preferred (paid $200,000) to $2.03 a share on 1,189,354 shares of $10 par common stock, excluding 1200 shares in treasury. Company had net of $3,401,725, or $2.78 on common, in preceding year.

A Delight to Make This Gay Knitting Bag

Weave Easily on a Breadboard!

Bright and cheery—this novel knitting bag, hand-woven in stripes of orange, dark blue, red.

Would you guess ordinary dishcloths are its base—and that you just run colorful bias binding tape through the open meshes?

You need one sturdy 15-inch dishcloth for each side, another for the handle. Work with one cloth at a time, tacked to a breadboard.

Thread tape through a tapestry needle or bobby pin, weave under and over rows of mesh, as the diagram shows. The next row, use tape of another color and so on.

In a jiffy both sides are done and you're ready to cut and weave a strip 3½ by 15 inches for the handle. Now sew sides together, turn inside out and attach handle. Line with bright colored cloth.

Weaving is fun, you'll find, and what a variety of pretty things you can make! Lovely is a gay rag rug, woven over a child's play hoop or a discarded bicycle rim. On a cardboard "loom," weave a smart homespun purse and belt.

Our 32-page booklet gives complete instructions, diagrams for weaving these and other lovely things—from inexpensive materials on homemade looms. Dollies, pillow tops, chair set, sewing basket, lots of others.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of HOW TO WEAVE USEFUL NOVELTIES to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of book-

New Fight Mapped To Save Hines

New York, March 24 (AP)—A new fight was mapped today to save James J. Hines, once-powerful Tammany chieftain from a four-to-eight year prison term for selling political protection to Dutch Schultz's policy racket.

His counsel, Lloyd P. Stryker, withdrew yesterday, and Hines depended on a new attorney, Martin W. Littleton, to carry an appeal.

Hines was lodged in Tombs prison yesterday after his sentencing, but the start of his term in Sing Sing prison will depend on the outcome of Supreme Court arguments Monday for issuance of a certificate of reasonable doubt.

Such a certificate would permit bail pending appeal.

Announcing his withdrawal, Stryker said "it is no backspin on my part. My feelings for the old fellow have not changed."

It was also announced that Joseph Shalleck, for many years

Hines' personal attorney, and closely associated with Stryker, likewise would withdraw.

Under state law, Hines will be eligible for parole after serving two years and eight months.

In a probation report Hines was described as a supposed dispenser, in recent years, of federal patronage.

"The report pictured Hines as a man who had been 'friendly' for 24 years with 'a certain woman' to whom he had paid as high as $100 weekly for her maintenance, as a man whose 'aggressive, persuasive, open-handed' personality had made him a boy politician, powerful before he was 21, and rising to be the most powerful of Tammany district leaders in 1920, after gaining $10,000 profits in six weeks from a garbage removal contract when he had entered the trucking business."

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

(By The Associated Press)

Lakeland, Fla.—Lew Mandell, the perennial rookie, has made his annual visit to the Detroit Tigers' training camp, but as usual couldn't persuade Manager Del Baker to add him to the mound staff. Mandell makes the rounds of the southern camps each spring. From here he headed for Bartow, temporary home of the Indianapolis Indians.

Los Angeles—A "bust" at the plate last season, First Baseman Joe Kuhel of the Chicago White Sox is batting a .478 clip for his first seven exhibition games and has Manager Jimmy Dykes going around with his fingers crossed. Kuhel contributed his third home run yesterday but couldn't keep the Sox from losing to their city rivals, the Cubs, in a 10-inning affair.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—The World Champion New York Yankees are proving a real magnet for fans along the exhibition circuit. In 12 games they have played before a total of 25,659 spectators. Yesterday Joe DiMaggio broke loose with two home runs, his first of the season. He already had six doubles and four triples and has driven in 16 runs with a batting mark of .423.

Sarasota, Fla.—The Ted Williams legend is beginning to roll. The Boston Red Sox outfielder, sometimes labelled "rookie of the year," strolled into a hotel lobby the other night to find Manager Joe Cronin chinning with Frankie Frisch. Ted's first question after being introduced to Frisch was "ever play ball, Mr. Frisch?"

McAllen, Tex.—Veteran Pitcher Ed Linke had the St. Louis Browns scratching their heads today. He wasn't good enough for the Browns last year so they sent him to San Antonio in the Texas League. But yesterday he held the Browns to one hit and no runs for six innings.

Lakeland, Fla.—Harold (Pete) Reiser, a 19-year-old rookie who modestly announced "I can hit any right-handed pitcher who throws a baseball," and supported his statement with three home runs and two consecutive perfect days at bat for the Brooklyn Dodgers, may never be seen this season by Flatbush fans. Now carried as a shortstop on the roster of Brooklyn's Elmhurst farm in the Eastern League, Reiser probably will be sent to a higher bracketed club for training.

Boat Racers Will Meet on Saturday

Boating enthusiasts and racers from cities and towns in the Hudson valley will meet at Fischer's Casino on Saturday night as guests of the Kingston Power Boat Association.

Plans will be formulated regarding a Hudson valley association for the promotion of races at various cities and towns in the Hudson valley.

The Kingston Power Boat Association is anticipating holding its regatta about July 9, drawing to Kingston the foremost outboard racers of the east.

Elizabeth, N. J.—Danny Tauriello, 131, Newark, N. J., stopped Johnny Trombone, 140, New York (4).

The Uptown Merchants and the Elks both continue their tie for second place in the American Division of the City Basketball League when they defeated the J. Y. A. and Aird-Dons respectively, at the Municipal Auditorium last night.

The Merchants were on top of a 43-27 score, while the Elks doubled the Aird-Dons' scoring, 20-10. In the third game of last night's card, the Forst Packers came into the win column again by a one-point margin over the Kalamazoo, 29-28.

The J. Y. A. started the scoring against the Merchants, chalking up six points before the Uptown boys got started. By half-time, however, the Merchants had gained a four-point lead, 16-12, and then continued to find the hoop during the third period to extend their lead, 33-18. While the scoring was about evenly divided in the last quarter, the game itself was enlivened with a fistic interruption between Garland and Bahl. The final score, 43-27, brought the Merchants one game closer to the undefeated league leaders, the Boston Cleaners.

Ray Schneider, Merchant scoring ace, led his teammates with 15 points. Bahl and Fertel were high for the J. Y. A. with eight points each.

No Arguments!

"Streaky" Streeter found out last night, at the expense of his teammates, that it doesn't pay to contest the decisions of Referee Ben Toffel, when the Forst Packers took advantage of two technical fouls called against Streeter to set up a one-point margin of victory. Forst, who have been the victims of Toffel's "technical" on several previous occasions, were on the receiving end last night.

Trailing 20-16 at half time, the Packers tied the score at the end of the third stanza by virtue of Woods' free throw, 23-23, two more free throws by Terpening put them in the lead which they held to end the game 29-28. Men-El scored 12 for the Packers and Snyder paced Kalamazoo with 9.

Blanks for Cage Contest at the 'Y'

Physical Director Chuck Henke of the Y. M. C. A. today announced that entry blanks for the Kingston Gold Medal Amateur Independent Basketball Tournament may be had at the 'Y' for the tourney to be played in April. Teams from all along the Hudson valley are eligible for entry in the competition this year. Henke said. Last year it was limited to quintets from Ulster and Greene counties, but on account of requests from teams in nearby communities not in the counties designated, the area will include the whole Hudson valley.

Tournament dates are April 3, 4, 5, 6, 10 and 11. Each team entered will play at least twice.

Sportsmen Gather at Banquet

Only Rainbow and Skeet Shoot for Wildlife Fund

It was decided not to stock Ulster's trout streams with brook trout in the future, at the monthly meeting of the Ulster County Fish and Game Protective Association, last night, when action was taken to request the state conservation department to ship only brown and rainbow trout to be used in stocking the streams hereafter.

The association also voted unanimously to purchase 300 ten-week-old pheasants from Alexander McGregor of Rhinebeck, from whom the association purchased the same number last year. These young pheasants will be released in various sections of the county. The usual supply of pheasant eggs will be distributed to the 4-H Clubs of Ulster county whose members have agreed to set the eggs and raise the young pheasants until they are old enough to be released.

Another matter of interest was discussed, that of increased membership in the association, and it was decided to stage a membership drive during April. In discussing the planting of brook trout in Ulster's trout streams it was brought out that what little luck had been met. Just what happens to the fingerling trout is not known, but although large numbers have been planted, but very few have been caught during the trout season.

Better success is met in planting brown and rainbow trout and for that reason the state department will be asked to cooperate in sending only that kind of trout for planting hereafter.

WYOMING POSSE BATTLES RAW MEAT EATER

Armed with rifles, forest rangers, sheriff's deputies and ranchers numbering 100 attempted to capture Earl Durand, raw-meat eating fugitive who fled to a rocky fortress near Cody, Wyo., after breaking from a Cody jail, kidnapping a deputy and killing two officers. A trench mortar, dynamite and gas bombs were dispatched to the scene by plane in an effort to dislodge Durand, who shot two possemen, apparently fatally, as they sought to rush his hideout. Other members of the posse are shown in consultation above.

Birds And Bees Help Science Produce New Hybrid Marigold

The "Papa" flower, left, and the "mama" flower, right. The bees that live in between carry the pollen from one to the other, and the new hybrid creation is the result.

By JOHN SELBY
(Associated Press Arts Editor)

Philadelphia — This is a story about the lovely flowers, the busy little bees, and the birds. But not the story you are thinking about.

This is about a new red and gold hybrid marigold which, up to a short spell ago, everybody thought was impossible. Then Dr. William H. Eyster of Bucknell University successfully crossed the big yellow African marigold and the smaller, more richly colored French variety.

The result was that the ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria in New York was engaged to give the new hybrid a debut as glamorous as Brenda's, and perhaps more so. But it was not so simple as this may seem.

Dr. Eyster's cross was made in 1936. But the African variety was the female parent, and the French the male. The female parent was from a plant that is always male sterile, so (quaint though it may seem) the blossom Dr. Eyster took to David Burpee, the floriculturist, was a "mule."

It therefore would set no seeds. The problem was only partly solved, because if the hybrid were to do the public any good, seeds were necessary.

So Burpee ordered his staff to try to cross every type of French marigold with every type of African, a long and tedious job, because pollenization had to be by hand.

One cross took particularly well—but it also was a mule. And hand pollenization to produce it was impracticable.

The problem was solved with almost absurd simplicity. "All you have to do," Burpee told his staff, "is to plant the parents in alternate rows and put a lot of beehives in the field."

It was done, by the bees and the birds. The seeds from the huge field will, when planted, produce red, yellow and mixed blossoms in six weeks, and because they are males and can't set seeds, they go on blooming all summer and fall until frost kills them.

so important. The two types of flowers originally crossed can continue to produce the hybrid seed. The new flowers are temperamental. In cool weather they produce more red blossoms. In mid-summer heat they tend toward yellow, and mixed. But the same plant often carries all shades at the same time. Then even their creator thinks they look rather unreal.

Surgical Operation Saves Game-Cock

New York, March 24 (AP)—What appears to have been one of the first surgical operations on a beaten game-cock to save his life was disclosed by Dr. E. K. Laroe, woman plastic surgeon, of New York.

While motoring in New Jersey she picked up a game-cock which evidently had been tossed out as dying. The bird had a partially severed jugular vein and gashed windpipe.

Back at her apartment, Dr. Laroe removed the blood-clots from the bird's windpipe, sutured it, coagulated the vein, and sewed up the lacerations over his crop.

She gave him some whiskey. Next morning she found signs of high fever in the bird. She put him in a tub and turned on the shower, then massaged the bird's spine. After that there was more whiskey, followed by an injection of coramine to stimulate his circulation.

Next an ice pack was made for his head, some aspirin given and then a few drops of goat's milk.

Today the little rooster is able to walk and well on the road to complete recovery. Dr. Laroe plans to place him with a poultry farmer who has promised not to make soup out of "Henry."

About a year ago Dr. Laroe found an injured male kitten alongside a dining car on a southern New Jersey road. His leg was broken. She set the leg and the kitten recovered. But he grew unusually fast and big. He began growling at fur coats and attacking them. In due time he grew up sufficiently to be identified as a wildcat.

Merchants Finish Arrangements for Display Thursday

Spring Opening Display, sponsored by the Kingston Business Men's Association, which will be held Thursday, March 30, will combine features of past Spring Openings and also a new plan. Final arrangements were made yesterday by the committee in charge.

As usual the windows of the merchants will be veiled and decorated during the afternoon and at 8 o'clock in the evening the curtains will be drawn to reveal to the public the displays.

In order to make a visit to the business section profitable as well as pleasant, the merchants this year will offer merchandise prizes worth over $150 to those who are skillful enough to estimate the value of the merchandise displayed in the windows of participating merchants.

This contest is open to all over 16 years old and all that will be required is to look at the windows on Thursday evening, March 30, make an estimate of the retail value of the display, place that estimate on a blank which will be provided at the store door and drop your estimate in a box in front of the store after placing your name and address on the entry blank. The person coming closest to estimating the retail value of the merchandise will be given a prize by that store. You may enter an estimate on each window display in the business section.

All estimates must be deposited in the ballot box by 10 p. m. on March 30. In case of a tie, the winner will be decided by a drawing.

As an incentive for the participating merchants to plan attractive displays the Kingston Merchants' Association will award prize ribbons to the three best displays. Judges to be appointed later will judge the windows and award the prizes.

As usual the stores will not be open for business on Spring Opening night. Windows will be unveiled at 8 o'clock and will remain lighted until 10 o'clock giving all an opportunity to view the displays and enter estimates in the prize contest.

A. C. Clifton, foreman of a Texas ranch and authority on horses, says a horse needs only three hours of sleep in 24 hours and will "bed down and sleep any place if tired enough."

The lowest temperature drop registered in the city engineer's office was 30 yesterday and the highest 46. The high today at noon was 56 with indications that a further rise of the mercury was possible by mid-afternoon.

Unknown Peaks Found in Canada

Geographical Secrets Revealed With Growth of Aerial Photography.

WASHINGTON.—Canada's geographical secrets are rapidly being revealed with the growth of aviation. Aerial cameras in recent years, have been focused on mountains and valleys and map-makers have added thousands of square miles to their data.

In 1935, the National Geographic society's Yukon expedition photographed and mapped a vast area in northwest Canada, and last month an aviator reported sighting an unmapped chain of lofty peaks in the northern part of British Columbia.

"British Columbia is largely a land of lofty peaks and deep, fertile valleys spreading over an area larger than all of the Pacific states of the United States, Washington, Oregon and California," says the National Geographic society. "Many of its mountains are unsealed and unnamed, and vast areas are known only to Indians or prospectors."

Once a Crown Colony.

The coast of British Columbia was discovered in 1774, nearly three centuries after Canada's Atlantic coast was sighted. Crown colony status came in 1858, and 13 years later it joined the provinces of the Dominion of Canada.

"Glowing reports of the discovery of precious metals, and known wealth in timber, fish, and fertile lands attracted streams of immigrants. In the first quarter of the present century, the population trebled. Chinese and Japanese immigrants were welcomed in the early days of settlement to work in the various industries. But so great was the influx of Orientals that Chinese immigration was forbidden, Japanese restricted. Nearly 25,000 Indians live in the province today."

"In spite of its rugged mountains, agriculture is the province's leading industry. It has not, however, been fully developed. There are 20 million acres of tillable land but barely a tenth has been farmed. Specially suited for fruit-growing, the valleys have shipped apples as far away as eastern Canada to compete with fruit grown in Nova Scotia's Annapolis valley."

"British Columbia fishes for much of its commerce. Salmon, halibut, herring, and cod slide by the shipload from nets to markets and canneries. Owing to the great demand for salmon, hatcheries on rivers most frequented by the fish have been established to ensure the supply. Another development in the fishing industry is extraction of oil from whales and dog-fish."

Rich in Minerals.

"Gold was the first mineral to be mined, and still is important among the province's mineral resources. In recent years, however, lead, copper, coal, zinc, and silver have showed gold down to sixth place in the mineral output. British Columbia is Canada's chief copper-producer. It also supplies mercury."

"British Columbia trees find their way into world timber markets. Most important of the province's trees is the Douglas fir which grows to a height of about 300 feet on a trunk eight to ten feet in diameter at its base. Ship and building contractors like Douglas fir because it is tough and strong."

"Canada's chief Pacific port and No. 1 city" the province today, Vancouver, owes its increasing commercial importance to the shipment of wheat.

"Eighty miles across the Strait of Georgia from Vancouver, Victoria, capital of British Columbia, and a typical English city, spreads over the southern end of Vancouver island."

"Steamers regularly serve other ports on the fjordlike coast, and furnish the easiest entrance for travelers to the province's several national parks."

Movies and Television Depend on Vision Fault

NEW YORK.—Human beings have an optical fault—"persistence of vision"—without which both motion pictures and television would be impossible, television experts here explain.

The persistence of vision causes a "ghost" to linger on the retina of the eye for about one-sixteenth of a second after a flash of light or a picture has been produced. Because of this the frames of a motion picture, which flash at a rate of 24 pictures per second, and television, which flashes 30 pictures per second, appear as a continuous movement.

Vaccine 'Takes' on Young Woman's Nose

INDIANAPOLIS.—A young woman of this city recently had a "misplaced" vaccination.

She had received an arm injection of smallpox vaccine, then some time later she touched a finger to the injection wound and then scratched her nose. Unfortunately there was a slight skin abrasion on her nose.

The vaccination on her arm didn't "take." But the one on her nose did.

Sportsmen Hear Wildlife Sermon Following School

Woodstock, March 23.—Ben DeGraff, president of the Woodstock Fish and Game Association, reports that the trapshoot held by his organization at the Athletic Field, Woodstock, was well attended and financially successful, at a time when money is badly needed to finance the rearing for release of the 300 day-old pheasant chicks that the state has allotted them. Representatives of gun clubs from all over the eastern end of Ulster county competed. The 22 calibre still-target matches were not held as announced as few of the guests asked for them, however, the association will probably always hold a place for the 22's at all shoots for those who prefer them.

Winners of Sunday's shoot were as follows: Winners of turkeys, Knaust, Lowther and Benoit, all of Saugerties; Wagoner of Woodstock. Winners of chickens, Benoit of Saugerties, Van Gonsie of New Paltz, Jean and Marion Wilbur, Norman DeCock, George A. Riskey and Ben DeGraff of Woodstock. Prizes were also awarded to those for whom the trap threw "red" birds for them, provided they succeeded in hitting them.

In the evening many of the local sportsmen attended services at the Lutheran Church in order to hear the sermon on wildlife conservation given by the Rev. A. Walter Baker, who gave a similar sermon last year. The sportsmen who attended last year enjoyed the common sense so ably expressed by Dr. Baker that he had been requested to repeat his sermon this year. "The pulpit is doing much to spread the gospel that you can't have your cake and eat it," says Ben DeGraff. "If we want to save our game, fur-bearers and the beauties of our country-side, we must make an intelligent, studied effort toward that end."

The story of what to save is vividly and beautifully told in gorgeous colors by this year's edition of the National Wildlife Stamps. There are eighty of them, all different, on a sheet that sells for a mere dollar, every cent of which is spent in the study of wildlife conservation. Brilliant with fish, game birds and animals, non-game birds, i. e., song and insectivorous, fur-bearers; the water conserving, soil conserving beaver at work, useful forest trees, and flowers we all love, all tell an eye-opening story to the person who has not yet learned that conservation does not mean merely raising creatures to be put out and shot. The battle against the forces that make for extermination is largely a battle against our own ignorance, rather than against the other fellow's viciousness. But the story is too long to tell here. Would you like to know more about it? Apply to the officers of your nearest game club, and you are pretty apt to be directed to some quiet fellow who can tell you as many stories about saving flowers as about saving fish—coast redwoods, giant sequoias, mosses, flowers, bitter-sweet, trailing arbutus.

The local supply of stamps can be obtained through the Wilson boys at the Woodstock Garage, or William Douglas, secretary of the Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club, phone Woodstock 14.

Good Skiing In High Hills

The first Sunday of spring may still find Ulster county a center of winter sport activities with good skiing on the higher Catskill slopes above the 2,000 foot elevation. On some northerly slopes ski trails are still in excellent shape below that level and the mountain towns are expecting a few last minute addicts of this popular sport over the coming week-end.

At Phoenicia last Sunday about 400 people enjoyed good skiing on the upper trails and on the Simpson Memorial slope there was good snow. Some 400 people enjoyed the slope and the ski tow was in operation during the day. Dirt however, is beginning to show through the snow now and it is not expected that much snow will survive the present warm spell on the slopes.

Forest Rangers report good snow for skiing on the upper slopes and trails, particularly above the 2,000 foot levels.

Grasshoppers cause the greatest loss of young trees planted in the shelter belt program of the prairie states, but other natural enemies such as rabbits and mice also do serious damage.

Search Resumed For Missing Man

Sheriff Molyneux, with Deputies Vredenburg, Brown and Winne, at the request of friends and relatives, on Thursday renewed the search for the body of Frank Toohey, who is supposed to have been drowned Thanksgiving night in the town of Gardiner.

The officers made a thorough search of the vicinity at the time of Toohey's disappearance, but without success. Search Thursday produced no better results and was resumed today.

Toohey was never again seen, so far as known, after he had left the Guilford Hotel at Tuthilltown, ostensibly to go to his home, late Thanksgiving afternoon.

Mahon of the town of Gardiner is a sister.

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz, March 24.—The Paltztonette, the Normal School publication, is about to issue its March number. The feature article, "Where Are They Now," deals with the graduates of the former New Paltz Academy and the early Normal School. Abraham Rosenthal, the author, mentions many who have held places of prominence in the life of Ulster county. Other features will be three fiction stories, "Personal Column," by Warren Eggleston; "A Quartet Goes a Long Way," and "Inside Page Stuff," by George Fersh. Of special interest is the result of the survey taken on the campus by the staff, particularly the question about possible presidential nominees in 1940. Thomas Dewey was favored for Republican standard bearer by the students, with Roosevelt, Garner and Farley in the order named for the Democratic nomination. George Fersh is editor of the Paltztonette.

Miss Ruth Reeves and Miss Esther Beadesby spent the week-end in town.

Dorothy Clineman, who underwent an operation in the Kingston Hospital, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Seldersbeek and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Akin Skidmore, in Millbrook, celebrating the Skidmores' wedding anniversary.

Principal Ray Cunningham of the New Paltz High School lists the following state diplomas just received from the state education department, Albany: College entrance diplomas, Frederick E. Humphrey, George Manolakes, Evelyn M. Jansen, Edward F. Tiffany and Lorna F. Van Orden.

High school diplomas: Edith Barrowman, Mary Eicks, Michael E. Beavqua, Esther M. Clearwater, John J. Connell, Sylvia C. Goldwasser, Anna M. Gurovich, Victor A. Hungerford, Jr., Margaret Graham Kevan, Robert H. Pelham, Joseph J. Savago, William R. Shahan and Dorothea B. Zaengle.

Ralph H. Johnson of New Paltz district superintendent of schools accompanied by Miss Mary Ellen Rich, a faculty member of the Normal School, conducted 12 seniors of the Normal School on a visit and inspection of the Marlborough and Milton schools Wednesday.

Miss Eva Lund and Florence Grater spent the week-end in town.

Walter Van Wagenen, Isaac Bell, Ruth Seward and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dunham, New Paltz residents, were among those who returned to New Paltz for the alumni week-end.
